1. This is a short thread about the infiltration of totalitarian CCP propaganda machines, their assaults on democratic traditions and an appeal to actions in UK.

The Chinese Communist Party tries to get a free pass on their appalling human rights atrocities. We must stop them.

2. Yesterday, a group of pro-Beijing organizations hosted an "anti-Asian hate" rally in Chinatown. Of course, it's indispensable to address the problems of racial-based hate crime. But the speakers kept equating criticism on China to stirring hate to Chinese people.

3. That's literally not true. In fact, CCP is the most racist country -- they lock millions of ethnic minorities in modern-day concentration camps just because of their religion. We criticize CCP for their suppression to minorities, so to the others.

4. The Chinese govt is not getting away with the disguise of the "anti-racism" narrative. We should hold anyone committing racial violence accountable, most notably the CCP. These organizations are helping to white-wash CCP's atrocities.

5. When you look into their background, such as the Min Quan Legal Centre, The Federation of UK Fujian Chinese, most of them have track records supporting totalitarian regimes. Some of them supported the National Security Law in Hong Kong, which annihilated our free system, ...

6. denied the genocide in Xinjiang, and supported Beijing's belligerent attitude towards Taiwan. These people are totalitarian supporters, not racial equality defenders. They are part of China's state apparatus.

7. Yesterday, there was a crowd of pro-Beijing thugs ferociously attacked Hongkongers who countered their propaganda campaign in Chinatown. This has shown how the long arm of the Chinese Communist Party is, in effect, trying to erode our democratic tradition to silence dissent.

8. We should not tolerate these malign forces in our society. I hereby urge the UK govt to investigate all the organizers for traces of infiltration orchestrated by CCP. Meanwhile, all the pro-Beijing attackers should be apprehended and brought to justice.
