

A period of chaos began in America on Saturday July 13 evening and it continues. why? because there is an election on November 5, 2024, therefore the convicted criminal Trump who is using all the tactics to regain power. imagine if he starts to gain traction and appears to have margins in the House and Senate large enough to allow him to do some of the truly horrible things... notably scrapping the US Constitution, stripping women of their bodily autonomy, and blocking their right to vote, deporting immigrants, green lighting that viruses mutate, etc... The problem now is many political veterans believe that President Biden's chances of obtaining a second term are slim to none due to concerns about his age, his mental state and his management of the country. Despite this, behind the scenes, a handful of people control access to information so tightly that the American people have been lied to. So all this noise is only intended to mobilize their base and distract us from putting pressure on Biden to step aside and allow suitable another candidate who can block the chance of the convicted criminal Trump to rip off American citizens. So, put in more pressure because Biden's health is not stable and we have other candidates who will have a better chance of beating this convicted criminal Trump. Just thinking about Covid-19, it's only summer but the new wave of COVID-19 is already reaping havoc in Canada, in the usUnited States and in the UK but the idiots in power there aren't doing anything for us...
